about me

I am ambitious and motivated with a self starter attitude that presents itself in my approach to learning new skills. I thrive when I am put into situations that are unfamiliar where I need to use problem solving.

Growing up in rural NSW, I have always been community minded. This has shaped the way I take on responsibility in a team environment meaning I find compassionate ways that include people to solve challenges while holding individuals accountable to their role expectations.

Very early on I had the choice to stay where I was, comfortable, or move to find new opportunities, I chose the latter and I have kept that seed of fearlessness ever since.

Thank you, Brenton
